INTERVENTION IN EUROPE URGED BY FEDERAL JUDGE BLEDSOE IN SPEECH HERE

Principal Speaker at Installation of Glendale Commandery, Knights Templar, Declares it is a Christian Duty

BOY MASONIC ORDER SERVES BANQUET

All Masonic Orders of Glendale Participate in Making the Impressive Services Representative of Fraternal Feeling

The duty of the United States to intervene in European affairs and save them from political and financial chaos as a Christian responsibility was the serious theme of the address made by Judge Benjamin F. Bledsoe at the conclusion of the installation of officers of Glendale Commandery, Knights Templar, a brilliant affair which had followed a banquet at which covers were laid for 180.

It was the pleasant because of the friendly aid and participation of other Masonic orders, the dinner being expertly served by members of the newly organized Order of De Molay, and the beautiful decoration of the lodge hall with ropes of smilax festooned from crossed wires, having been the work of Glen Eyrle chapter masons.

The list of honor guests included the worshipful master of Unity lodge and the high priest of Unity chapter, so it was an altogether fraternal affair.

As usual, the installing officer, Rt. Eminent Sir Benjamin F. Bledsoe, past grand commander of Knights Templar of California, installing marshal Eminent Sir Clement L. V. Moore and installing prelate Eminent Sir Ben O. Hagen, were escorted to the assembly with the beautiful ceremonial in which the knights of the commandery in full regalia participated, and were followed by the officers elect who were duly invested with the jewels of office and admonished as to their duties to the commandery and their responsibilities to the order.

Interpreting the installations were musical numbers by the Amphion Mixed Quartette and solos by William Pilcher, tenor and Miss Morris Coleman, the soprano, all of which were enthusiastically received and encircled by the interest and beauty was the Christmas number sung by Mrs. Helen Hagen Lumpkin, daughter of the installing prelate, Eminent Sir Ben O. Hagen, who received an ovation of deserved applause and who responded with the encore number, "Didn't It Rain," a negro spiritual. Mrs. H. R. Boyer was her accompanist.

At the close of the installations the retiring commander, Sir Geo. U. Moyse presented to Commander Sir Roy V. Hogue, a beautiful bouquet of roses, the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Allen of Denver, brother-in-law and sister of the commander, both of whom are active in the work of masonic orders and appointed not to be present at the installation. The gift was acknowledged with words of appreciation by the commander, who transferred the flowers to Mrs. Hogue.

Commander Hogue also voiced his own pleasure in the occasion which he pronounced the greatest event in his life with the single exception of his marriage to Mrs. Hogue, and spoke appreciatively of fraternal companionship of fellow officers and members, showing some emotion.

Past Commander Daniel Campbell presented to retiring Commander George U. Moyse, the past commander's jewel and reviewed the faithful service rendered by him in the years that have elapsed since the order was established in Glendale, commenting on the fact that 1922 has been its most successful year.

On behalf of the trustees of Glendale high and on the part of Sir Knight Walter Gorman presented a token of regard to retiring Commander Moyse, a bestdick carving set, voicing the esteem in which he is held by those associated with him in school work.

In the eloquent response made by Past Commander Moyse, he dwelt on the pleasant fraternal relationships which the order had developed and how much it had meant to him to have the loyal support of his staff who, he felt, were really responsible for the success achieved. He also spoke of his disappointment in the absence of Mrs. Moyse, prevented by illness from being present.

The program numbers were announced by Sir Francis J. W. Henry, who contributed in no small degree to the pleasures of the evening by leading the community singing which enlivened the dinner.

Judge Bledsoe began his address with a series of amusing stories and a story told by Daniel Campbell, Matthew B. Jones and other members of the commandery with whom he is on intimate terms, commenting on the growth of Glendale and the corresponding growth of the commandery as a good omen for the future of the city. Said he: "Glendale's commandery has been in the forefront for the maintenance of those things that serve to justify the existence of this great institution of ours. Over

SEWER EXPERT TO REPORT WEDNES. TO COUNCIL

J. B. Lippincott to Outline Type of Disposal Best for City

J. B. Lippincott of Los Angeles, who was employed several weeks ago by the Glendale city council to bring in a report on the local sewage problem, will, it is understood, render his decision on the matter at a special meeting of the council to be held Wednesday evening in the city hall.

Mr. Lippincott was employed to solve the sewage problem for all time for Glendale. His report, it is understood, will embody not only the type of system that may be installed, but also the method of installing it. The report to be rendered by Lippincott will doubtless include a system that would embrace the entire city.

According to predictions, Mr. Lippincott's report will name a location for the placing of the disposal plant or plants, and far enough from the city so that it will not be offensive to any of the residents of Glendale.

BONUS LINE PLEDGES ARE CALLED UPON

Notifications Are Sent to Subscribers to Pay Amounts

RAILWAY IS READY Only Delay Is Caused by Slowness in Getting Cash Into the Bank

Notification letters were sent out Saturday afternoon and Monday to all of the subscribers to the $25,000 fund for the electrification of the Union Pacific line on Glendale avenue.

Herman Nelson, to whom the fund of sending out the notices was transferred a few days ago, has done speedily work. All subscribers have been notified that the amount of their donations is payable immediately into the Glendale avenue branch of the Pacific Southwest Trust and Savings bank.

It is understood that the Glendale-Montrose Railway company is making every preparation to install the line. Large quantities of material have already been contracted for and it is expected that it will begin to arrive within a few days, providing those who subscribed to this fund come through with their part of the agreement. It is believed by Mr. Hatch, manager of the Glendale-Montrose Railway company, that that concern will be able to start work on the line about January. The line should be in operation before May 1.

Some of those who have subscribed to this railroad fund have already made payment, but a large percentage have been waiting for the notice telling them that the money is due and payable.

Following is the letter that has been sent to the various subscribers: "The amount of the bonus to be paid to the Glendale-Montrose Railway company for the extension of the line on Glendale avenue to the corner of Verdugo and San Fernando road in Los Angeles has been fully subscribed.

"The railway company has advised us that it has signed the agreements with the Union Pacific company and has made other necessary arrangements to commence work on the extension and operation of the line.

"Therefore, if it is necessary to ask you to deposit the amount of your subscription at once.

"Your pledge to the fund was _____ dollars, which amount please pay to the Glendale avenue branch of the Pacific Southwest Trust and Savings bank as soon as possible, making the amount payable to Dr. H. R. Harrower, S. C. Kinch and Peter L. Ferry, trustees, who will pay the money over to the Glendale-Montrose Railway Company as soon as service has been instituted on the new line of the railway.

"It is very necessary that your subscription be paid in immediately in order to hasten the improvement and operation of this electric railway line."

This communication is signed by the Glendale Advancement Association, Herman Nelson, secretary.

GLENDALE DAILY PRESS READERS VOTE AGAINST ANNEXATION BY PHONE

Some Admit They Were Interested in Propaganda, But Soon Saw Through the Proposition and Are Now Strongly in Favor of Home Rule

A few votes for annexation appear today in the vote of the Glendale Daily Press readers. These votes are worth considering.

The reasons given for desire to annex are worthy of study by the city and its citizens.

The most vital reason given is a surprise, in that annexation would give water fit to drink.

It is a surprising complaint, since a comparison of the water of Owens river and of Glendale has always been to indicate the superiority of this city's supply.

If the water Mr. and Mrs. Johnson of West Doran street now receive from the city is not fit to drink, it is a matter for the city service department—not for annexation. There has been no complaint from other Doran street residents.

Another reason given is the possibility of a telephone and fare reduction. It has been authoritatively stated by the telephone company's local manager that toll rates would not be reduced; by the railroad commission that consolidation is not considered in fixing fares. So that seems to be that.

Returning to the subject of water, it was stated in the Los Angeles Express that Chief Engineer Mulholland of Los Angeles warned that city, in his annual report, against spreading out Los Angeles' water supply by annexation of more territory, because of the present need of doubling the present supply for Los Angeles alone as now constituted.

Annexation might give Los Angeles a better supply through use of Glendale water, but, be it good or bad, the quality of Glendale water supplied here would be unchanged, unless it be mixed with the alleged inferior Los Angeles brand.

Mrs. Joseph Wagner, 415 West Myrtle street: "I think it would be a good thing for Glendale to annex to Los Angeles. Sewerage disposal in Glendale is going to be a big problem in a few years. If Glendale joins Los Angeles it would have an outlet."

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. East, 215 South Glendale avenue: "We are not in favor of annexation, as we do not see any advantages to be gained."

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Bender, 407 Cameron place: "We are not in favor of annexation. Although it is said that we would get sewers if Glendale annexed to Los Angeles, we have no proof of this."

Mrs. Edward Hoskyn of 234 North Jackson street answered, when asked how she felt about annexation to Los Angeles: "I would like to see Glendale annexed to Los Angeles. For one reason, I think the taxes would be lowered. Mr. Hoskyn says he does not want to annex, but nevertheless, Mrs. Hoskyn says she will vote for it."

Mr. and Mrs. George R. Postle, 501 West Patterson avenue: "We are not in favor of annexation. We think that Glendale is all right the way it is and do not see any benefits that would be gained."

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Torrey, 218 West California avenue: "We are very much opposed to annexation. We do not see where we would be benefitted any or that we would have lower taxes."

"We believe in it," stated Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Johnson of 365 West Doran street, when asked to give an opinion on annexation. "We have not been convinced that it would not be better for Glendale, although we might be. If we could have water we could drink we should be thankful, and we believe the telephone system would be different if we were annexed. We don't think it would hurt Glendale one particle."

Mrs. J. R. Ervey, 416 Hawthorne street: "I believe that inasmuch as Glendale has made such a reputation for itself as a residential city that it is a good thing to let it go as it is. I cannot see much advantage that would be gained by annexing to Los Angeles. Although taxes have seemed rather high, it is a question whether or not they would be lowered by annexation. There are advantages enough with Glendale as a separate city to more than make up for anything that might possibly be gained by annexing to Los Angeles."

Mrs. A. H. Brown, 638 North Howard street: "I believe the people of Glendale are too far-sighted to consent to annexing to Los Angeles and lose the identity of this city. I cannot see where there would be anything gained by annexation."

Mr. and Mrs. C. Challis, 335 North Columbus avenue: "Until about a year ago we resided in Los Angeles for a number of years and came to look upon Glendale as a part of that city. We believe that Glendale would be helped by annexation, the same as Hollywood, in the matter of lower street car fares and telephone tolls."

A. G. Spohr of the Spohr drug store said anent joining Los Angeles: "We do not want to be annexed, and the reasons are patent. Men from San Fernando can give plenty of reasons. If one would stop to think about conditions a few years back before San Fernando was 'in' and remember the beautiful boulevard Sherman Way was then, a source of pride to the traveling public and the people in that vicinity, and compare what it was with what it is since Los Angeles acquired and neglected it, they will see reason enough for opposition to annexation. We would absolutely lose our identity and be the tail of the kite in business and other ways. We have reached a point where we should be able to take care of ourselves."

COMMITTEE ON COMMITTEES IS DELAYED

Unable to Make Complete Report to the Chamber of Commerce

The committee on committees of the chamber of commerce which met last night and of which City Manager William Reeves is chairman was unable to make a complete report of its recommendations which will be submitted at a later date.

Only a tentative report was received from the committee on Glendale's fleet of which J. G. Huntley is chairman and E. F. Sanders is secretary and treasurer. Peter Ferry and C. C. Cooper are also members of the committee, having special charge of the financial end. The city council had said it would turn over to the chamber today its contribution of $250 if the chamber was prepared to do likewise and the work now resting on the committee is to collect the donations of other organizations.

The committee appointed to have charge of preparation of the floor includes Mrs. Mabel Tight, Fred Deal, L. C. Rowley and Harry Rogers. They will work under the direction of L. C. Chobe, designer.

XMAS PERIOD SERVICE IS GUARANTEED

Expense Is Guaranteed by Individual Underwriting of the Cost

JANUARY FUND DRIVE Community Pageant Is Proposed by the Service Players of Glendale

Underwritten by various individuals, the Glendale Community Service is guaranteed for the Christmas period, it was announced at the meeting of the executives yesterday.

The regular luncheon meeting of the executive board, of which V. M. Hollister is president, was held Monday noon at the Broadway Inn. Plans for ways and means of raising a budget for Glendale Community Service were discussed. It was announced that the campaign for financing can begin in January. Inasmuch as the Glendale Community Christmas celebration is a Community Service project, it was decided that the support of the various organizations to finance the program would not be asked, and that this will be done by Glendale Community Service. C. W. Ingledue is chairman of the Community Christmas finance committee.

Mrs. Nanno Woods introduced Mr. Tweedale, vice-president of the first unit of Glendale Community Service players. Mr. Tweedale presented a proposition for the presentation in Glendale of a community pageant some time in the spring. He offered to give his services of three to four months absolutely free, and proposes to produce "The Sign of the Cross," which would call for the co-operation of all interested in dramatic productions and would entail no great expense. This pageant has been produced only in two other places, New York and London, according to Mr. Tweedale. The proposition was taken under consideration.

ADDITIONAL CAR FOR MAIL IS SECURED

D. Ripley Jackson, postmaster of Glendale, announced this morning that he has succeeded in getting additional Pacific Electric car service, over and above the regular schedule, for handling mail out of Glendale to the Los Angeles railroad depot, for immediate dispatch. This additional service is on independent cars, not the passenger cars, and the special schedule for December 25 to 28, inclusive, calls for cars leaving Los Angeles at 8:30 p. m., arriving in Glendale at 9:06 p. m., and leaving Glendale at 10:15 p. m., and arriving in Los Angeles at 10:40 p. m. The schedule for December 25 and 26 calls for cars to leave Los Angeles at 1:15 p. m., arriving in Glendale at 1:40 p. m., and returning direct to Los Angeles.

"This is one of the benefits derived by the people of Glendale by having an independent postoffice," said Mr. Jackson. "We would hardly have this if we were annexed to Los Angeles."

350 ATTEND FIRST BIG SING OF THE GLENDAL COMMUNITY SERVICE

Those Present Rehearse Carols to Be Sung by the Carolers in the Christmas Celebration on the Night of December 25

ALEXANDER MITCHELL PRESIDES AT MEET

Invitation Is Extended by La Crescenta to Participate in the Activities at That Place This Evening at the Schoolhouse

The first community "sing" conducted under the Glendale Community Service program was held Monday night at the high school auditorium, with Alexander Stewart, Pacific coast music organizer for National Community Service, as leader, and Miss Gertrude Champlain as accompanist.

Through the courtesy of the Boy Scouts of Verdugo Hills district, invitations had been distributed throughout the city, asking the residents to join Glendale's Christmas carolers by attending the "sing." Despite the fact that there were several important meetings of organizations being held in various sections of the city, a large number responded to the invitation, there being about 350 present.

The purpose of the "sing" was to rehearse some of the carols which will be used in the big Community Christmas celebration on Christmas night, December 25, on the high school grounds, and also to present some of the aims of Community Service. The program of carols was interspersed with vocal selections by Mrs. Harry McMullin, who sang "Night of Nights" (Van de Water), and also by Howard Cavendish (Adolph Adam), both of them being accompanied at the piano by Miss Gertrude Champlain. Harry James delighted the audience with a group of stories told in his inimitable manner.

Alexander Mitchell was present and acted as chairman of the evening, introducing the various artists and also Colonel James Everington, who is chairman in charge of the community Christmas celebration and explained the purposes of Community Service. He said "The Community Service organization is endeavoring to make Glendale a city of neighbors, as well as a city of homes." It has recognized the fact that there is power in music and by assembling together in community sings of this kind it breaks the ice. The Christmas celebration, in which all of the people are invited to participate, will be the first of a series of community programs which Glendale Community Service will provide.

An invitation was extended from the people of La Crescenta to attend a Community Christmas tree and celebration at the La Crescenta school house tonight, Tuesday, at 8 o'clock.

Seven new members were initiated as follows: William G. Reid, Percy J. Hayden, Russell B. Clark and Myron M. Betz, all of Glendale; B. E. Halverson of Van Nuys; R. F. Hopper of San Fernando, and Dr. James T. Axline, initiated for St. Louis Lodge No. 9. Following the regular lodge work a program characterized as one of the finest ever put on by the lodge, was presented. The talent was secured through Miss Irene Jones of Los Angeles, who was one of the artists and it included numbers by a Spanish dancer who has had a part in the Mission Play, the King Brothers, clog dancers of the Orpheum Circuit; a colored male quartette, and other singers. Refreshments were served in the banquet hall following the entertainment. The attendance exceeded 500 from all parts of the jurisdiction and autos were parked for several blocks in all directions.

Forty attend the Credit Association

About 40 members attended the meeting of the Glendale Credit association held Monday noon at the Chamber of Commerce. Judge Owen Emery presided. The principal speaker of the day was Captain D. Ripley Jackson, postmaster, who told about conditions at the postoffice. He spoke of what work had been done toward the betterment of conditions there such as securing more help and more mail boxes.

Three accidents occurred in Glendale on Monday. Machines operated by Joshua Parschian, 119 West Broadway, and W. C. Walker of Los Angeles, collided in front of 119 West Broadway at 4:50 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Little damage was done.

A. L. Foster, 646 West Broadway, was driving a machine that came together at the corner of Salem and Central at 7:45 o'clock last night. No one was injured.

A. L. Burchant of Los Angeles was plowing a machine that collided with an automobile operated by J. R. Dunall of 1154 South Brand boulevard, the accident taking place at the intersection of Glendale and Palmer at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The damage was slight.

Meet and Quiz City Engineer on Widening of Thoroughfare

A few people who own Colorado frontage met in the office of Graham & Wilson, 1120 E. Colorado, last evening to discuss various phases and problems that are of paramount importance to this important thoroughfare. City Engineer DuPuy was present and gave what information he could in answer to the many questions propounded. The information obtained is, substantially, as follows:

The street will be widened twenty feet as soon as the work can be accomplished; notice to be posted in January if possible. It is estimated that it will take from eighteen months to two years to get the necessary court condemnation proceedings through in order to put in the sidewalks and parkway, during which time the street will be without sidewalks. The estimated cost of the widening and paving (which does not include sidewalks) will be about $9 per front foot, all of which will be charged to the frontage of Colorado. This does not include water mains nor any provision for sewer.

A permanent organization will be effected immediately after the first of the year and it is desired that property owners kindly leave their names and addresses with Mr. Kirk, at 1120 E. Colorado, in order that they may be properly notified of any action taken.

Truths in Epigram

TOO MUCH GLOOM

Probably there is a rather rigid censorship of news
cabled from Europe. Thus the flood of pessimistic stuff that is permitted to come through, may be regarded as calculated to serve a purpose. It may have the design of creating an overwhelming sympathy.
It may be a form of the process that would urge the United States to participate actively in the affairs of Europe. Anyhow, there arises the impulse to take some of it with a grain of salt.

Austria has vanished. This much will be admitted.
The little remnant of it that remained after settlement of terms was not capable of self support. There was an inhibition against joining with the only other nation that could have accepted such a union. So has Austria virtually perished. The men and women who had been its subjects, no more are a separate people.
They are hungry folk, ill clad, suffering all that poverty may inflict. But the impression that the whole of the continent is to become as Austria, does not get hold upon the mind.

Many correspondents say that Germany is near collapse. Perhaps so. It is not quite plain what precise condition would be indicated by collapse. Germany may decline to pay its debts. The people still will be there. They will have their tasks to perform, and the work will be done, for they are an industrious people. Collapse does not mean that the land would cease to produce. The failure of the present government could not exhaust the means of Germans
for having a government of some sort.

Greece, too, is slated by correspondents to fall to pieces. The same somber souls look a little farther ahead to see France in the act of tumbling into chaos.
Pretty soon doubtless they will be engaged in rearranging the fragments and making a new Europe,
all by their skill in performing on the typewriter.

THE TOURNAMENT OF ROSES

Although the annual Tournament of Roses is one of the civic affairs having Pasadena for a setting, it is of decided interest to all of southern California.
In spirit it is not localized, nor kept within any municipal bounds. By its radiant beauty, the fact that it is unique, that it could not be duplicated; by the circumstance that it is held effectively, it proclaims the suavity and lure of the climate, it appeals to a large circle. The people in every city within a wide radius feel a personal pride in the yearly event. Many of them participate. Gladly they lend to the purpose of display, the wealth of their floral product. In addition to the parade, there is an established custom of holding a football contest between the east and the west. The aim is to have the best eleven of the Pacific coast meet the best that any other section may send. The contests have been of the highest class. This year, for the first time, the gridiron battle will take place in an ample stadium,
the structure itself the outgrowth of the Tournament
organization, evidence of long continuing success.

Elsewhere the football season is over before January 1. It has been especially here extended in view of the opportunity afforded for making a final and decisive match in connection with the Tournament. It is pleasing to notice that this plan has endorsement from all over the state. President Barrows of the University of California has stated in a letter to the Alumni association, that he is interested in seeing a game in the Pasadena stadium every year, and he does not believe that any game should be held anywhere else that would rival it.

There had been intimations of desire to take the management of this sporting feature away from the gentlemen who have conducted it so satisfactorily.
Here and there have been hints of plans for having other football matches nearby on the same date. The views of President Barrows bear directly on these matters, and are likely to be accepted as logical,
and fair, and therefore conclusive.

ARMY TRAINING IN SCHOOLS

Army training in the public schools has proved beneficial. It is good for the boys themselves. It tends to make them yield to wholesome discipline.
It teaches them independence, stirs their pride, and
the physical exercise involved, helping to build up their bodies, imparts a manly carriage that cannot fail to have some bearing on character. The boy with shoulders back and chin up will develop a character to match. Moreover it would be well, if ever again the country needed an army, to have throughout the land a sprinkling of men who as youths had learned something of military tactics, and who would be competent speedily to become instructors, and to accept commissions.

There is a pacifist opposition to this military training. It is to be regretted. It is based on the notion that a boy who acquires any part of the knowledge that a soldier must have, is qualified at once to start out upon a career of violence, and necessarily inclined to do so. The theory of this opposition carries with it the belief that while a boy must not be reared so as to be fit in time of emergency, for a soldier's duties, he must by all means be inducted into the class sometimes mentioned sincerely, as molly-coddles.

Meanwhile it is to be observed that many boys are taking the military training and are profiting by it.

TRAFFIC IN CRIMINALS

Los Angeles authorities are said to have sought to trade three Mexican suspects for one Mexican mur-derer. Bartering of this type may be unique, and yet it must be conceded to have merit. The murderer in question had killed a faithful policeman. Even before this he had been known as a dangerous ruffian, naturally a denizen of the underworld, and feared even there. After his crime in Los Angeles he escaped to Mexico, being Mexican by blood although a native of the United States. Mexico, in the absence of an extradition law, and perhaps a little nettled because its government had not been officially recognized, declined to give the prisoner up. On the contrary, the populace fought to get him out of the clutches of American officers.

At about this time three Mexicans fell into the toils of the law in this state. They were charged with offenses far less heinous than murder. They happened to be related to a Mexican judge. Evidently his pride was touched, and he shrank from having his kin tried for petty misdeeds. Soon negotiations for a swap were in progress. There is no record as to who started them. The essence of the bargain was that three minor suspects, of good connections, should be traded for one major criminal concerning whom suspicion had become certainty.

The ethics of the transaction need not be discussed.
The result is the matter of particular interest. When a criminal is much wanted, and a bunch of small fry can be exchanged for him, and everybody officially concerned is satisfied, the only sincere protest is likely to come from the worst criminal of the lot.

SPINDLING ISSUES

By DR. FRANK CRANE

The Rev. Harry Emerson Fosdick the other day,
in an address before the international convention of Young Men's Christian Associations, said that the trouble with Christianity today is that it is not presenting the real issues of the times, but is
"keeping the foreground cluttered
up with spindling issues."

These issues he defined as "denominationalism, theological disputes, and unimportant differences of opinion." He added that "while men are aware that great issues are involved, they do not hear Christianity speaking on the real issues, and therefore they are justified in their indifference to religion."

"The Bible," he said, "talks
good biology when it says that we are all made of one blood. And," he continues, "we must reach back to the fact of human unity and lead mankind back into real unity again. The fate of the nations depends upon it."

"Christ," Dr. Fosdick went on, "preached against racial prejudice. He preached against it on the day when he went back to Nazareth and preached his first sermon in his home-town church. But today we let the foreground fill up with things that don't matter. I can remember in my former church affiliation disputes over how much water should be used for baptism. I am not telling of disputes in some other church because I am trying to be polite.
Christ never pressed a small issue in all his life."

One of the fundamental issues, Dr. Fosdick said, was involved in the fact that on one side is ranged eternal God, revealed in Jesus, and on the other a materialistic philosophy of life. "Materialism," he said, "takes the shine out of existence. I will not communicate with any man who takes his stand on God's side in this issue."

"I am a long way from Rome. But the other day I went into St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York, heard a wholesome Christian sermon, and worshiped God. A few days ago I went to a Quaker meeting house and worshipped God there.
Catholics and Quakers are not so far apart as are those distant from both Catholics and Quakers who adhere to a materialistic philosophy of life. Lots of men we call indifferent would really take their stand with God if we gave them the chance."

"We have been trying through the centuries to make two irreconcilable philosophies of life lie down together in peace, and we scoff at the kaiser too loudly let us look to ourselves. How many still praise God out of one side of their mouths and praise war out of the other? The gospel and organized slaughter cannot exist together. The question is not one of Christ and war,
but of Christ or war."

Dr. Fosdick said that war which is entered into
in an inescapable emergency was one thing, and the war system another.

"Let us have human brotherhood, industrial righteousness and a world of peace against the old regime. These are the real issues. Thus we will be lifting Christ before men so that they will come unto Him."

This minister seems to be saying things. May his tribe increase!

DISCUSSION CLUB

About "Me."

E. Adelaide Hahn: "I should like, if I may, to take issue with you in regard to your explanation concerning the objective form in the sentence. It will be better for Mr. Jones and me to talk this thing over." You consider me the subject of to talk, as it would be in the sentence
'He wished Mr. Jones and me to talk this thing
over'; but is not the use of an infinitive phrase
of this sort as object of a preposition quite unexampled? I should certainly call Mr. Jones and me not the subject of the infinitive to talk but the object of the preposition for. As for to talk
this I regard as the logical subject of the sentence, anticipated, in accordance with English idiom, by the expletive it, which serves as the grammatical subject. I am glad to make use of this opportunity of expressing to you my appreciation of the fine work that you are doing in spreading among your readers an interest in, and a consciousness of, correct usage of our rich and beautiful mother tongue."

Mr. Nicholson: Miss Hahn's analysis shows a thorough understanding of a very difficult part of English grammar. The Right Word hastens to concede that there is food for thought in the cor-respondent's reasoning. We both agree that me is correct, and that it is not correct. However,
an infinitive preceded by a preposition, a preposition and infinitive clause, may often function as a complement of a verb, or as subject of a verb.

This being true, such a phrase-clause could be in apposition with it, and, therefore, by rearrangement we would have: For Mr. Jones and me to talk this thing over would be better. In such a construction me is in the objective case, subject of to talk over. Miss Hahn's explanatory rearrangement would be as follows: To talk this thing over would be better. In Mr. Jones and me.
In her construction me is the object of for. The issue is more or less subtle. Underlying thought must be consulted. Therefore, The Right Word, believing that the full, expressive, grammatical subject is for Mr. Jones and me to talk this thing over, still maintains that me is in the objective
case because it is the subject of the infinitive
to talk over.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

My boy, you are inclined to be cynical this morning.

You are a bit out of sorts.
Not quite in tune.

Something has happened to disturb your serenity and calm.

Somebody has disappointed you or some venture has failed.

So you take it out in grumbling.
Which is not unnatural.

And being not unnatural there is no reason
for scolding you about it.

Scolding does little good.
Reason is better.

So we will reason it out together.

You say that it is not true that merit wins always.

How do you know it is not true?
Have you ever tried it?

You have ever consistently and persistently
put all the merit you have into your work?

If not, then you do not know whether merit
will win or not.

Because you have not made the trial.

The years are many before you.
There is much work to do.

There is a lot of opportunity.
The work and the opportunity are calling
you.

Naturally you will have some disappointments.

You will fail sometimes.
But you will not be able to say whether or not merit wins until you have put merit into your work and until the accounts are closed.

So you will admit that your judgment was hasty.

And again you say that honesty is not necessarily the best policy.

That is a thoughtless statement.

Songs of the Poets

The Lure—By John Boyle O'Reilly (1844-1890)

"What bait do you use," said a Saint to the Devil,
"When you fish where the souls of men abound?"
"Well, for special tastes," said the King of Evil,
"Gold and fame are the best I've found."

WHAT IS A WONDERFUL WOMAN?

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

"My mother always had the idea that I was going to be a wonderful woman and never could see why I should ever get married."

"About a month before my wedding mother said she thought I ought to look back on the things I had done, and say that with my accomplishments and all I should not go on."

It's odd how often in one
form or another that story comes to my desk. Every time
it comes I wonder why mothers think "accomplished"
girls ought to condemn themselves to celibacy.

Now every girl who graduates from college is, in the opinion of her fond maternal parent, "wonderful." Every girl who has musical talent is "wonderful." Pretty girls are "wonderful," girls who can

dance are "wonderful," and
the girl with a movie mug is
of all the most "wonderful."

As a matter of fact, there is nothing wonderful about any of these things. If a girl is unusually gifted she has only to look over history or
the daily papers to discover that the Lord has sent many other girls into the world
equally well equipped.

But, granting for the sake
of argument, that these girls
are "wonderful," why should they remain single? Gifts
either have a value or they do not.

Talents are to be used; there is Scriptural authority for the statement. Read the parable of the Ten Talents.

A single woman can use her talents for money getting; she can use them, at best, to gratify the public. Or she can marry, use them to bless her home and make it the abiding place of joy and culture and finally perpetuate them

through her children.

It takes an exceptional or
an unsexed woman to remain
single without becoming unhappy or warped. The fight for public recognition is cruelly hard, and only one person
out of one hundred ever becomes widely known, even
with a special education, in one of the fine arts. That is statistical.

In view of all this, it seems to me that the only really
"wonderful" woman is she
who sees that she is not wonderful merely because she is gifted, and who, recognizing this, marries and makes some man a good wife.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

COUNTRY'S SAFETY VALVE

(Manufacturers Record)

The safety of this country depends upon the ability of the American people to change party alliance whenever they feel that one party or the other has blundered and should be voted
out. The country was thoroughly aroused against the management of affairs under the democratic administration, and by the have a majority ever given a presidential candidate voted Mr. Harding into office. The swing of popular sentiment, changed by virtue of what was regarded as sins of omission and commission, has now very nearly voted the republican party out of power—but not quite. It has,
however, put the republican party on notice
that unless the affairs of the government are administered for the best interests of the whole country it will be voted as completely out as
was the democratic party two years ago.

SPUNKY WOMEN

(Brooklyn Standard Union)

The organization of 200,000 American women who have declared their intention to continue to wear short skirts despite the notice
from a French designer that skirts will be long,
are at least entitled to credit for having a reasonable degree of intellectual independence.
If a French ladies' tailor can come over here
and tell us what our women folks must wear,
we are a sad lot of incompetents, indeed.

IMMIGRATION PROBLEM

(Charleston News and Courier)

We do not believe that the people of the country in general want to see immigrants pouring into the United States in thousands at this time. A plentiful supply of cheap labor might help certain industries just now, but only yesterday we were in the midst of a serious unemployment crisis. There are other considerations, moreover, more important than those of a purely industrial nature. We have not been able to absorb and properly assimilate the foreigners we now have, and until we have done this, or at any rate learned how to do it, we had better not add new hundreds of thousands to the number of the unassimilated.

OBSERVED AT A GLANCE

By HENRY JAMES

Something novel has appeared at last in film society circles. A star sought divorce
and failed to get it.

Cincinnati police are combating that city
"for Clara Phillips." Perhaps the city needs
combining on general principles.

An advertisement mentions a "libeled" automobile. Probably some pedestrian had spoken his mind concerning the machine.

"Don't be a Scrooge" counsels a paragrapher, neglecting to explain what sort of a creature that may be.

When the people of Torrance raised Christmas money for the poor they were embarrassed by the fact that there were no poor
there.

The demand of Hearst papers for recall of Ambassador Harvey naturally gives rise to the belief that he is the right man for the place.

"Too pretty to be good," a young woman
has been sent to the penitentiary, where even beauty can't cut many capers.

One difference between a champion pug-
list and a champion wrestler is that the latter can't retain his title indefinitely without visible effort.

It appears that the man who willed five
houses to the tenants occupying them, had no
houses. He must have been even more eccentric than supposed.

For a government that desires to be recognized Mexico shows peculiar zest in shielding
a murderer from the United States.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

The advice "Don't be a Scrooge" is noticed in a paper that comes to hand. It may be a good advice, or it may be bad. The student of Dickens remembers old Scrooge, but has a dual vision of him. The original Scrooge was a cold-blooded miser, who thought more of a shilling than of his own soul.
Indeed, at that stage of the game, it would have been flattery to admit that he possessed a soul.

There was the later Scrooge, the genial and beaming agent of happiness, scattering smiles and largess, seeing beauty in a world that had been nothing but a place in which to grind the faces of the poor. It was well, indeed to be such a Scrooge, but not through first having been the other kind.

As a rule the Scrooge such as discovered by the ghost of Marley, is incurable. There is nothing to do but hate him cordially, avoid his presence, reject
him as an example, and laugh at the spectacle if some intended victim gets the better of a bargain
with him.

This is the season for acting on kindly impulse. It need not be done as a sop to conscience. It may be done for the joy of bestowing pleasure, and the preciousness of winning friendship by being worthy of friendship.

Not long ago an attempt was made to kill the chief of Scotland Yard by poison. He has not quite recovered. Probably as soon as able to go back to duty, he will make an earnest effort to land the enemy.

Since the Scotland Yard episode a similar effort has been directed at the life of a prominent British government official. All of this means that somebody will be caught pretty soon and hanged pretty soon after that.

They are planning a great scenic boulevard from Hollywood to the ocean. It is to follow the skyline of the Santa Monica mountains.

Now is the time for doing things that mean so much for the future of this region.

Clara Phillips has been gone so long now as to show that the search for her has been an utter failure. Not a single clew followed has led anywhere, and in the search, with its brassbanging,
there has been little evidence of high detective intelligence.

Probably the woman will be caught some day. The finding of her will be accidental.

An attorney of Corona, having wife and children, picks up a girl of 16, herself married, and the next thing is that both are in the hands of the Los Angeles police.

Of course there are entirely brainless girls of sixteen, and almost anything may be expected of one of them. But why does a man, full grown, cast aside all restraints and make an ostentatious fool of himself?

A party of Californians are going to Tiburon Island in quest of cannibals. This is a variation from the familiar plan of going to Cocos to search for gold. The two enterprises are similar in that there is no gold on Cocos, and no cannibals on Tiburon.

However, if gold were to be found, the finder would know what to do with it, but finding a cannibal, would have no guiding precedent.

Europe is cautioned by American writers to "put its house in order." That sounds wise and easy.

But perhaps there has been no time to rebuild the house since the war caused it to be burned.

From the frequency and ease with which prisoners escape from the county jail, it seems reasonable to suppose that no inmate remains excepting from choice.

Pasadena feels proud of the honor that has come to Dr. Mill-kan, head of the California Tech. He has been awarded the Edison medal for "meritorious experimental achievement in electrical science."

Dr. Millikan is one of the growing group that is making California an educational center.

A Missouri farmer bought an old bureau for $1. It had belonged to an aged and grouchy recluse who left no heirs. In a drawer of the article the farmer found a powder can containing $560 in $20 gold pieces. He turned the coin over to the administrator. Was he under any moral obligation to take this course?
Certainly such was the decision of his own conscience, for otherwise
he would not have done so.

When property is sold at auction, often it is because of the possibility of discovering within it a mething of greater value than indicated by the outward appearance. This applies to the antique trunk, or the ancient satchel. Perhaps it has no application to bureaus.

WATCHING THE PARADE

BY JOHN PILGRIM

Four times last week I listened to lecturers. Each unfortunate was introduced by a despairing soul as—
"A man with a message."

If the four lecturers had messages, they were long distance ones.
They talked the same optimistic, sunny, insincere yawn that one becomes accustomed to on the lecture platform. One learns that the lyceum courses which used to be the standard of winter entertainment in small American towns are gradually fading into nothingness. Also one understands why. They have been trampled out of existence by the men with messages. Audiences may pay one winter for a full course of plaudits, but next winter they will try the movies. Yet these are messages.

"I believe you meant what you said," a listener said to one of the lecturers one night when he came down from the platform to shake hands. "But you don't get down to brass tacks."

The lecturer looked cultured.

"Now," said the listener, "I tell my boy—
"He's only seventeen, that boy of mine, but he's a great kid.
I wish you could see him some time—I tell that boy of mine."

"There is only one thing important for an American business man, and that's to make money. If you do not make money you're a failure. If you lose money you're rotten."

The listener said he went on from there.

"And I tell that boy the only sort of money that is worth making is clean money. You do not want to apologize for your money.
It isn't enough to make a fortune. Lots of people have fortunes.
You must make a fortune of which you can boast."

And the listener said that the only way to do that is always to keep faith. Make your goods better than you say they are. Make your acts better than your promise.

"When you get a job," I say to that boy of mine, "you get a job with the right sort of people. You must start right, for you must remember you'll be in business all your life."

The lecturer yawned. Yet he had been listening to a man who had a really worth while "message."

DO YOU KNOW THAT—?

Christmas Caroling Revival Is Backed by National Bureau

In its promotion of Christmas caroling as a community movement Glendale is receiving the approval and full cooperation of the National Bureau for the Advancement of Music with headquarters in New York City.

C. M. Tremaine, director of the Bureau, and a national figure in the community music movement, has written a letter of appreciation to the Christmas Carol Committee of Glendale Community Service, Mrs. Doris L. Gibson, Mrs. Harry McMillin, Mrs. E. Branneman and Mrs. W. Q. Widdows. Mr. Tremaine, after complimenting the committee upon their plans, says:

"A survey of the extent to which outdoor Christmas caroling has been adopted in the United States in December, 1921, made by the National Bureau for the Advancement of Music from newspaper reports on the subject gathered from all parts of the country, shows over 500 cities as having organized the singing groups by that date. This total is double the number it was possible to trace in 1920.

In addition to this growth there was also a great development in the way of new features introduced in connection with the caroling, and better organization of the groups. The following paragraphs, giving a few sidelights on the caroling in cities of various sizes in the past year or two, may be of interest.

The carol for today follows:

THE FIRST NOWELL
(Traditional)

The first Nowell the Angel did say, Was to certain poor shepherds in fields as they lay; In fields where they lay keeping their sheep, On a cold winter's night that was so deep,

Chorus—
Nowell, Nowell, Nowell, Nowell, Born is the King of Israel.

They looked up and saw a star Shining in the east beyond their far, And to the earth it gave great light, And so it continued both day and night.

Then enter'd in these wise men three, Full reverently upon their knee, And offer'd there in his presence, Their gold and myrrh and frankincense.

THE FIRST NOWELL
Many words contain complete stories in themselves. "Nowell" as an English word tells of the Norman Conquest of England eight hundred years ago and the strong influence of the French language which followed it. A large part of our English speech comes directly from the French. Sometimes, as with this word, we change the spelling when the original spelling would not, with us, suggest the desired sound. The French "Noel," which demands two syllables, might with most English speaking people be pronounced as one syllable. To avoid this, a "w" was inserted, and, to make the second syllable look more English, an "l" was added. Thus, "Noel" became "Nowell." So we find in one word traces of a language development which was spread over many years probably a century or two.

The French word, "Noel," more over, has another story to tell. It comes from the Latin, "Natalis," meaning birth. The old Latin sentence, "Hodie Christus Natus Est"—means, "Today Christ Born is." So "Noel" was birthday. By frequent use it was made to refer to the birthday of Jesus, and then to a song which told about the birthday of Jesus. Hence, "Noel," in French means, besides the birthday of Jesus, both a Christmas carol and a Christmas greeting. "Noel!"

"Noel" is thus the French salutation and when coupled with "Joyeux," to make "Joyeux Noel," it means Joyous or Merry Christmas.

This particular "Noel," or Christmas song first appeared in print in 1835, but it had been sung long before that. It is one of the ancient medieval carols and is probably about four hundred years old. The poetry is crude, merely a peasant's attempt to present the New Testament story in rhyme, thus making it easy to remember, but thoroughly sincere and devout. The music is likewise simple, being practically one little strain sung three times, but it is so vigorous, so joyous, so well adapted to full-lunged, hearty singing, indoors and out, that it, after four hundred years, is fresh and virile, with the prospect of an indefinite life ahead of it.

OWEN MOORE AT THE GLENDALE IS CLEVER

Off with the old love and on with the new is easy enough to talk about but, oh, man, when you try to get away with it, what a difference? "Love is an Awful Thing," the picture in which Owen Moore is starred and which is shown at the Glendale Theatre, concerns the adventures of a young man who on the eve of his matrimonial plunge is confronted by a very determined sweetheart who he believed had long since passed out of his life.

In a desperate attempt to convince this young lady, ably portrayed by Charlotte Mineau, that her love is hopeless, Moore, in the part of Anthony Churchill, tells her he is already married and the father of six children.

"EAST IS WEST" MAKES HIT AT T. D. & L.

Never has Constance Talmadge been seen to such advantage as in "East is West," the first National attraction which yesterday opened in engagement at the T. D. and L. theatre.

This may seem a broad statement, but it is more than justified by Miss Talmadge's interpretation of the role of Ming Toy. Due credit must go to Joseph M. Schenck, who plunged on his production to the extent of buying one of the biggest stage successes of recent years at an enormous cost for the one start best suited to portray the leading role.

Miss Talmadge is utterly delightful as Ming Toy, the quaint and adorable. She lends a charm all her own to the many scenes of delicious comedy.

CHARITY BALL IS BIG SUCCESS AT LA CRESCENTA

Proceeds to Be Used for the Community Christmas Tree

LA CRESCENTA, Dec. 18.—The charity ball held at the school auditorium Saturday evening proved a decided success, socially and financially. The proceeds will provide a community Christmas tree at the school next Tuesday and cheer baskets for the sick of this valley. The dance was under the auspices of the La Crescenta Improvement Association with the cooperation of the Montrose Chamber of Commerce, the P. T. A., and the La Crescenta Woman's Club. One of the enjoyable features of the evening was a costume dance given by Helen Mead and Anna May Howard. The refreshment booths were particularly attractive and were presided over by Mrs. F. K. Czeranski, Mrs. M. Adams, Mrs. M. S. Collins, Mrs. S. B. Young, Mrs. T. S. Minford, Mrs. H. S. Eissell, Mrs. F. H. Anderson and Miss Delia Bastable.

DR. HARRY BROWN FILLS COMMUNITY CHURCH PULPIT

LA CRESCENTA, Dec. 18.—Dr. Harry Brown, who recently returned from Sangli, India, occupied the pulpit at the Community Church yesterday morning. Dr. Brown, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Brown of Montrose, is home on a furlough from the Presbyterian Mission School at Sangli, where he is in charge of the industrial work. Dr. Brown will return to India at the end of his furlough.

Wireless Call to U. S. Liner Saved Life of Sick Sailor in Mid-Ocean

Alongside the U. S. Liner.

New York Trans-Atlantic travelers who in the course of their passage have witnessed a rescue or the transfer of a sick person from a nearby ship have had an experience they will not soon, if ever, forget. Recently upon the arrival of the steamship "President Garfield" of the United States Lines came a story of a seaman whose life had been saved by wireless.

The story of the life-saving is told in the true but comprehensive report of Captain H. L. Look of the steamship "President Garfield." The report succinctly tells of the treatment by wireless of a seaman in the throes of pneumonia, his eventual transfer at sea and a course of treatment aboard the liner that resulted in his stepping ashore in New York a well man.

The "President Garfield" was en route to Europe when the stirring incident occurred. Shortly before midnight the wireless operator responded to a call for aid. The message came from the freight steamship "West Norranus," bound from Mobile, Ala., to Rotterdam, Holland, and stated that a member of the engine room force was seriously ill and in need of immediate medical attention. The "West Norranus" gave her position which showed that she was almost 100 miles distant from the "President Garfield."

Captain Look, of the "President Garfield," summoned the ship's surgeon, and asked him to do what he could by radio in the matter of prescribing for the patient. The surgeon called for a description of the man's illness and from the reply he diagnosed the case as one of pneumonia in a most advanced stage. His diagnosis completed, the surgeon prescribed emergency treatment.

There was a rapid interchange of messages between the "President Garfield" and the freighter and then came one which stated that the supply of drugs on the small vessel was very limited and that it was impossible to follow out instructions. It was stated that the patient was sinking rapidly and that his life was despaired of. When the information was conveyed

A firm engaged a new bookkeeper, who speedily got the accounts jumbled. He was called into the private office and told that his work was far from satisfactory.

Very nervously fingering the edge of his coat, the bookkeeper entered upon an explanation that lasted ten minutes. When he finished the principal growled: "Your explanation is as clear as mud."

"Well," exclaimed the nervous bookkeeper, grasping at the opening like a drowning man at a straw. "Well, that covers the ground, doesn't it?"

5 REASONS

WHY YOU SHOULD INSTALL THIS CONCRETE CESSPOOL

1. Our blocks are circular and will make a complete and compact circle. Therefore, a Cesspool built of our circular blocks cannot cave in.
2. Seepage is obtained through five uniform holes in each block, and not by spacing the blocks. Therefore, our circular blocks allow for all the seepage that the earth around them will absorb, without weakening the walls of the Cesspool.
3. Our Circular Blocks are made of concrete and are properly cured. Therefore, they will outlast anything else that has, heretofore, been used for this particular purpose.
4. Our Circular Blocks are of uniform size, standard quality, and must be used for Cesspools only, when perforated. Therefore, only one grade material can be used.
5. Last, but not least, IT DOES NOT COST ANY MORE.

Why not give your wife or mother a gift for year-round appreciation? Much of a woman's hardest house work comes from lack of modern hot water service. Running hot water to sink, bathroom and laundry will save miles of steps and hours of waiting.

Why not get away from the usual idea of Christmas giving and instead of presenting a gift that is used up or worn out in a year or two at the most—give something of lifetime worth—modern hot water service!

There is a type of water heating equipment here to exactly suit your needs, and your pocketbook. Ask us about it.

GOOD HUNTING

BY JOHN BRECK

"Klack! klack!" goes the killy-hawk these spirited autumn days. Let lesser birds go mute in sparrow brown when the mating season is at an end. The affairs of spring are only an incident in his existence. But no hunter winds a more jovial horn this sporting time of year than the little falcon. Never does he preen a brighter wing, spread a ruddier tail, or fill his shot-speckled vest with signs of deeper satisfaction than when he takes his hold perch at the end of a leafless twig and scans the meadow with the eager, red-brown eyes of a setter dog.

How different from his summer apathy—possibly the apathy of extreme reptilian. For when the billowing grasses are at high tide, the fields are just one huge grab bag for him. Then he doesn't play eagle in an eyrie near the sky—not he. He sits low down on a fence post, and pounces like a cat on anything that moves. It may be mouse, young rabbit, ground squirrel, frog, crayfish, snail, or slug; even a spider is filling for his claw. I have seen one fish for minnows marooned in a shallow pool. Another snapped a lunar moth from under my nose, while I was waiting for its wings to expand. The wing covers of large and tasty beetles sometimes mark his private roost. As for grasshoppers and crickets—in these days of plenty, he hardly seems to regard them as food. He merely picks one up from time to time as an idle man might light a cigarette, dies back to his post, and holding it in his claws as a parrot holds a sunflower seed, twists off a drumstick. Then he changes feet and nips off the other one. His low dilatory circling seems less an effort to satisfy an appetite than it is to create one.

A touch of frost, however, makes eating a real pleasure; and a couple of rainy days will provide him with a hunger which needs no sauce. On chilly mornings he claps a thankful beak over the hoppers that can do no more than crawl. And while he waits for them he may even purloin a sprig of alfalfa from the pile before the cow, and pick at its leaves with relish. But let the sun come out, after falling winds and pounding rains have threshed the grasses till their stalks stand sparse and bare, and he can see to pick and choose. Inexperienced young snakes are all abroad. He can seize one by its bight and reel in its slack as deftly as a yachtsman reefs in his sheet to go about on a new tack. There are baby lizards galore—for those who can catch them. Sparrowhawk forsooth! Why should he pick on the elusive fluttering?

He doesn't. Mouse is his staple diet; and he hunts it, not sneakily like a serpent, or by craft like old Uncle Crow, but as a sportsman should. Let any mouse be abroad when he sounds his tallyho, and it leaps to meet his eye. Let it be ever so safely hidden, that stirring sound will set its frightened paws in motion—and it's the evenest break in the world that the cover it finally ends in will be inside his claw. Watch him awhile and see.

HOW DREADS BEGIN

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc. (Copyright, 1922, by The Associated Newspapers.)

To English Bagby of Yale university I am indebted for knowledge of two typical cases of phobias, or irrational fears, illustrating most impressively the curious way in which such fears are linked with long-forgotten experiences of a distressing sort. Also these cases go to emphasize the beneficent results frequently obtained through nothing more than the recall of the experiences to conscious remembrance.

In the first of the two instances related by Mr. Bagby a young woman of 20 was subject to a phobia for running water. The sound and the sight of running water equally disturbed her. When water was drawn for a bath she had to be in a part of the house where she could not hear it filling the tub. When she traveled by train or automobile the curtains had to be drawn to spare her from seeing rivers and brooks and waterfalls.

So greatly was she affected by that which she abnormally dreaded that the unexpected sight or sound of running water precipitated attacks almost convulsive in character. On several occasions she fainted outright. Nor, although she appreciated how irrational her dread was, could she overcome it, exercise her will power as she might.

Such was the situation until an aunt, whom the phobic had not seen for many years, chanced to visit her home. Conversation with the aunt brought back vividly to her recollection a fear-inspiring episode of her childhood connected with running water.

As a girl of seven she had wandered away from a picnic party, had stumbled into a brook and had become face. She was not seriously hurt, but she was "terribly frightened," as her aunt reminded her in recalling the incident, which had almost completely faded from the phobic's memory.

Now both the latter and the aunt had a good laugh over it. From that day, for no apparent reason, the dread of running water lessened, finally to disappear altogether.

In the second case the fear which afflicted a middle-aged man was of being grasped from behind. This caused him, whenever he went outdoors, to keep looking back over his shoulder in the oddest way imaginable. Indoors he felt impelled always to seat himself with the back of his chair against a wall. To go among crowds was agony to him.

All efforts to conquer this dread failed, and the unfortunate man seemed fated to be harassed by it to the day of his death. But it left him of its own accord when, during a visit to the village of his boyhood, he met an old man who formerly had kept the village general store. "Well I remember you," the old man told him. "You used to plague me by stealing apples and peanuts from the front of the store. But I cured you of it when I crept up behind and seized you one day. You were so frightened you screamed and fainted."

The youthful delinquency and the fright to which it led had been long since forgotten. But clearly this fright had been the starting point of the dread of being grasped from behind. For now the dread departed, never to return.

In both these cases, it will be noted, chance alone afforded a means of cure, through revealing the forgotten origins of the singular phobias. Fortunately, phobias as a class do not have to depend on chance for their recovery. Modern medical psychology possesses means for reviving experiences that have been forgotten, and to medical psychologists, accordingly, all afflicted with irrational fears may hopefully turn in the event of failure to banish the fears unaided.

'DEPROPAGANDIZE' OF STATEMENTS IS SOUGHT

Secretary of Labor Davis Would Control Explanations in Industrial Life

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—A million-dollar federal commission to "depropagandize" the statements of contending sides in industrial disputes was proposed to Congress as an aid to quick and effective settlement of strikes by Secretary of Labor Davis in his annual report.

Davis based his plea for such a body on the principle that public opinion settles strikes and without full possession of all the facts, public opinion cannot be formed. "The public knows that often alleged facts are presented in public speech or announcement which are not the true facts and therefore the public often hesitates in reaching a conclusion," the secretary wrote.

"With the proper sort of an organization in the department of labor it would be possible not only to bring contending elements together before a break, in most cases, but also in every instance to give the public the true facts from unprejudiced sources which would bring about a speedy crystallization of public opinion as to the merits of the dispute."

"The very fact that the contentions realize that the public would get the true facts would make them hesitate to come to a break. I believe with the creation of an organization such as I have in mind and with an appropriation of approximately $1,000,000 a year this gradually to be increased with the growth of industry, practically every labor controversy can be adjusted and nearly every strike can be avoided."

This "simon-pure news agency" proposed by Davis would be an adjunct of the conciliation service whose work during the past year Davis lauded and extension of which he urged.

Conciliation a Factor
"The conciliation work of the department," Davis wrote, "has gradually become more and more a recognized factor in America's industrial life, as experience has demonstrated the effectiveness of its mediation in avoiding strikes or in bringing a quick settlement of disputes where work has already been suspended. Labor has discovered that it has a standing recognized by the government whenever its demands are based on industrial and constitutional rights."

"Employees on the other hand have found that the department will protect them from unjust and unreasonable exactions."

"Provided with sufficient funds, our experience demonstrates that through this service machinery can be set up in various industries that will reduce to a minimum interruptions due to strikes and lock-outs. With co-operation from employers and employees, conciliation points the way to industrial peace."

"When the conciliation service began its work, 70 per cent of the disputes in which its intervention was sought had already reached the strike stage. Recently conditions have so improved and the services of the department have been so generally recognized that less than 30 per cent of the cases before the service have reached the point where work was suspended."

Settlement of industrial disputes has recently been more difficult than usual because of the period of industrial readjustment through which this country is passing, Davis declared. The success of the conciliation service, however, he said, has undoubtedly done much to aid in the stabilizing of the generally disturbed industrial situation.

An argument was in progress. Private Smart claimed that the tallest man was in his regiment, while Private White upheld his own regiment's claims.

"Why," said the first, "we've a chap in our lot who can light a cigarette from a lamp post."

"That's nothing," replied the other. "A fellow in my company's so tall that he has to kneel down when he wants to put his hands in his trousers pockets."

Foley's Friendly Fancies

JAMES W. FOLEY

THE VACATION

"One of these days," so my busy friend said, As I stood there and looked in his door, "I'll have quite enough real hard money ahead That I won't have to work any more. One of these days I'll look up this old place With its worry and hurry and strife, And I'll get all these wrinkles rubbed out of my face And I'll play all the rest of my life."

"One of these days I will check the last slip, And I'll make the last mark in my books, And then I'll go off on a wonderful trip To see how this world of ours looks. One of these days I will sell all my goods, Of money I'll have my full share, And then I'll go off to the hills or the woods And I won't have a fret or a care."

"One of these days I will have quite enough, Enough so I won't have to work, And then I will quit all this figuring stuff, And the rest of my life I will shirk. My hair's getting gray and my appetite's bad, And my health's not as good as the best, And one of these days I will be mighty glad To drop all this business and rest."

And one of these days he did just as he said, He left all his business and went; He had quite his share of real money ahead, In coupon and profit and rent. And he went for a trip to the hill and the wood, And we left him up there on the hill, And business goes on in the world as it should, And you'll find he is resting there still.

Babson's Letter

BONDS A BARGAIN, SAYS BABSON

Statistician Sees Long Swing Toward Lower Commodity Prices.

WELLESLEY HILLS, MASS., December 19.—There has been much discussion of late as to whether bonds have reached the top. Roger W. Babson evidently thinks not. In discussing the situation today, he calls attention to the long swing bond cycle and appears to have a hundred and fifty years of financial history on his side.

"The cheapest thing I know of today," says Mr. Babson, "is the promise of $50 a year for the next twenty years, secured by a mortgage bond. Just now this $50 will buy, perhaps, a suit of clothes. In 1920, it would have paid only for the coat and one armhole of the vest. We all can remember when it would have bought two suits, as good as the one it will buy now. Everybody is hoping for those old prices to come back. And nothing is more likely than that they will come back sometime within the next twenty years."

"Most of us, judging from our own experience, think of 1920 commodity prices as the 'high-for-all' time. What we do not realize is that prices have been as high three times before, at intervals of about fifty years and that between the peaks, each time, they have touched levels as low as in 1896. While earlier statistics have not been compiled, there is data enough to suggest that this same swing from high prices to low prices and back again, over long periods, might be traced far back into history."

"Prices turned at the same old peak in 1920. It is exactly in accord with past experience that there should be a short upward reaction, at this time, from the first sharp decline of last year. But, it would be against our economic history if prices did not show a long, slow trend towards a level that more nearly equalizes the buying power of agriculture with that of the manufacturing industry. The fact that the mass of people expect lower prices—of course, for the other fellow's goods—helps to bring them about. Psychology as a price factor may be more potent, under certain conditions, than the supply of gold."

PASADENA LEGION TO HAVE DRUM CORPS

PASADENA, Dec. 19.—Jazz, pep and stirring martial music are in store for Pasadenans in general and for members of the Pasadena Post of the American Legion in particular. The desired effect will be produced by a drum corps, eighteen drummers—count 'em—which will be organized by the post in the very near future.

The plans for the corps include snappy uniforms and all the varieties of rhythm that eighteen drums beaten in unison can produce. Fifes will not be included in the organization so that there will be no competition with the G. A. R. There may be bugles, and if there are the Pasadena Post promises the sensational musical organization of the whole California Legion.

One of the sensations of the middle west a few years ago was the University of Indiana drum and bugle corps, which travelled with the football team. Its syncopated thumping and tooting earned storms of applause wherever it tooted and thumped.

When the new corps is fully organized here it will be a real municipal asset and will add color to any gathering or parade in which it appears.

Investor can afford to ignore.

"This typical year-end market provides a wonderful opportunity for investors who have funds and faith in the United States. The lesson of the last few weeks again is, that no appraisal is accurate which neglects fundamentals. The same people who recognize the 'beginning of a bear market' last month are certain that things are going up today. But the fundamental situation has remained the same as three months ago. When everybody wishes to sell is the time that informed buyers carefully pick good bonds off the bargain counter."

Increasing stock market activity and Christmas buying have worked together to bring business up to a normal level. The index of the Babson chart shows general activity exactly at the normal line. This is the highest point since September 1920.

It is an encouraging sign, according to Mr. Babson, who expects activity to be slightly above normal for the next four to six weeks. Things will then let down a bit according to the statistician and the foundation of fundamental conditions will be completed for the next period of prosperity.

If you are tired of the same old grind you might change it by investing in a new set of teeth.

Our treatments are the same as used by the famous Battle Creek Sanitarium of Battle Creek, Michigan, and consist of diet, exercise, massage, electric light baths, salt glows, hot applications, hot and cold sprays, galvanic and sinusoidal electricity. The laboratories are equipped with fine X-ray machines with the latest stereoscopic improvements.

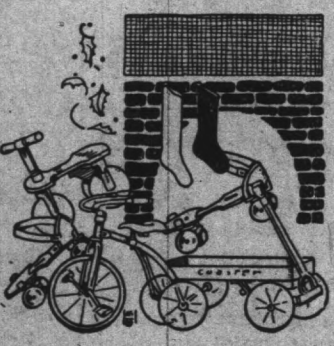

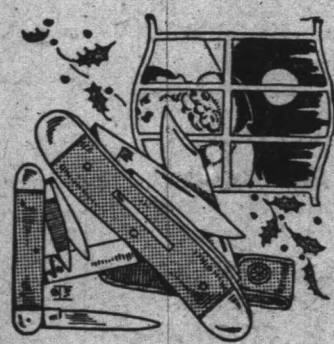

The efficient methods of treating the sick, combined with a scientific knowledge of the preparations and combinations of foods used in a vegetarian, or so-called non-flesh dietary, gives the patient a well-balanced course of treatment.
